cursing an' accusing me.

flame.

gets it wrongfully.

an' those unborn.'

was the boy taken."

an' God give thee counsel."

drew up to the little stove.
"Now, boy." said the clock tinker, leaning toward him with knitted brows,

"consider this poor thief who suffered estimate an' him his proper rank."

to dash their feet upon the stones."

the rush and scatter of the snow.

stairs and away in the darkness.

[TO HE CONTINUED.[

New Homes in the West.

Western R'y from Chicago, St. Paul,

Low Priced Atlas.

M , C. & N. W. R'y Co., Chicago.

on receipt of price named.

Agent, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Your Summer Vacation

where to go, and how much it will cost. Free on application to JAS. C.

Yellowstone Park.

oramic views of Yellowstone National

Any good things you may see,

That will lift his load of labor

Like Rocky Mountain Tea.

Have you seen one of those fine panit, I say. It will give thee comfort an'

in for Trove.

"What a sad tale!" said the boy

An' then I dream it has caught fire be-

DARREL of THE BLESSED ISLES

By IRVING BACHELLER. Author of "Eben Holden," "D'ri and I," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

CHAPTER V.

strap on his shoulder.

you?"

wearily.

thy country."

weathered timber

o' thy people an' the filly?"

lighted to see the clock tinker, of whom

"I think you yourself will need tinkwent up a street of gloom and narrow-hand on the eaves that overhung be-end. Clocks, dials, pendulums and tiny cogwheels of wood and brass were on a long bench by the street window.

Thereon also were a vise and tools

"On me life, it is cold," said the tinker, opening a small stove and begin-dead man's nose.' Be seated an' try-

There were an old rocker and two

"I do not feel the cold," said Trove.

"And no need of an overcoat." the boy answered, removing the one be

"Wherefore, boy? 'Twould

They entered a loft open to the peak low the level of the door top.

the rough board walls.

small chairs in the room.

wish you to keep it, sir."

serve me on thy back."

ed hair upon his brows.

he fervently. "Why so kind?"

Have ye seen whither it goes?"

thee an' bring happiness."

od morning, Mr."- The boy heal

try to be happy."

taking one of them.

the old man.

"Darrel-Roderick Darrel," said the old man. "That's me name, sor, an' T was Sunday, and a clear, frosty morning of midwinter. Trove had ye'll find me here at the Sign o' the risen early and was walking out A wind came shricking over the hills. on a long pike that divided the and long before evening the little town village of Hillsborough and cut the lay dusky in a scud of snow mist. The waste of snow, winding over hills and dipping into valleys, from Lake Chamas Trove climbed them. plain to Lake Ontario. The air was "Welcome, good youth," said the cold, but full of magic sunfire. All things were aglow—the frosty road-way, the white fields, the hoary forest and the mind of the beholder. Trove he came in. "Ho, there, me servitors! Let the feast be spread?" he called in a loud voice, stepping quickly to the halted, looking off at the far hills. stove that held an upper deck of wood, whereon were dishes. "Right Hand, Then he heard a step behind him and, as he turned, saw a tall man approachbring the meat, an' Left Hand, the poing at a quick pace. The latter had no tatoes, an' Quick Foot, give us thy help overcoat. A knit muffler covered his throat, and a satchel hung from a

"What ho, boy!" said be, shivering. placing a platter of ham and eggs in the center of a small table and sur-"Til follow thee a month, devise with rounding it with hot roast potatoes, a thee where thou shalt rest that thou pot of tea, new biscuit and a plate of may'st hear of us an' we o' thee. What "All well," said Trove, who was de-

"Ho, Wit and Happiness, attend upon us here!" said he, making ready to sit he had thought often. "And what of Then, as if he had forgotten some thing, he hurried to the door and open-

"Like an old clock, sor—a weak spring an' a bit slow. But, praise God, I've yet a merry gong in me. An' "Care, thou skeleton, go hence, and thou, Poverty, go also, and see thou return not before cockcrow," said he what think you, sor, I've traveled sixty miles an' tinkered forty clocks in the imperatively.

"You have many servants," said "An' how may one have a castle

"Ab, but I thank the good God here is without servants? Forsooth, boy, horses an' hounds an' lords an' ladies me home," the old man remarked have to be attended to. But the retinoo is that run down ye'd think me home Trove, "and hope I may see you often." a hospital. Wit is a creeping dotard, "Indeed, boy, we'll have many a and Happiness is in poor health an' blessed bour," said the tinker. "Come can barely drag himself to me table, to me shop; we'll talk, meditate, ex-plore, an' I'll see what o'clock it is in an' Hope is a tippier, an' Right Hand is getting the palsy. Alack, me best servant left me a long time ago!" They were now in the village, and, halfway down its main thoroughfare,

"And who was he?" "Youth; lovely, beautiful Youth! But let us be happy. I would not have

"Please take it," said Trove. him back - foolish, inconstant Youth, dreaming dreams an' seeing visions. The room was cleanly, with a crude homelikeness about it. Chromos and God love ye, boy! What is thy dream?" This rallying style of speech, in illustrated papers had been pasted on which the clock tinker indulged so freely, afforded his young friend no little amusement. His tongue had long obeyed the lilt of classic diction; his ning to whittle shavings. "'Cold as a thought came easy in Elizabethan phrase. The slight Celtic brogue served to enhance the piquancy of his talk. Moreover, he was really a man of wit

"Once," said the boy, after a little hesitation, "I thought I should try to I fell. Little by little I began to take "Belike, good youth, thou hast the be a statesman, but now I am sure I rose of summer in thy cheeks," said would rather write books!

"An' what kind o' books, pray?"

"An' thy merchandise be truth, capiwore and passing it to the tinker. "I tal!" exclaimed the tinker. "Hast thou an ear for tales?"

"I'm very fond of them." "Marry, I'll tell thee a true tale, not

"Please take it," said Trove. "I canfor thy ear only, but for thy soul, an' not bear to think of you shivering in some day, boy, 'twill give thee occupathe cold. Take it, and make me haption for thy wits."

"I'd love to hear it," said the boy, "Well, if it keer me warm an' thee The pendulums were ever swinging, pappy it will be a won lerful coat," like the legs of a procession trooping said the old man, wiping his gray through the loft, some with quick steps, some with slow. Now came a Then he rose and filled the stove with sound as of drums beating. It was for wood and sat down, peering at Trove the hour of 8, and when it stopped the between the upper rim of his spectatinker began. cles and the feathery arches of silver-"Once upon a time," said be as they rose from the table and the old man "Thy coat hath warmed me beart alwent for his pipe - "'twas long ago. ready-thanks to the good God!" said an' I had then the rose o' youth upon me-a man was tempted o' the devil an' stole money-a large sum-an made off with it. These hands o' mine used to serve him those days, an' I re

"If I am kind, it is because I must be," said the boy. "Who were my father and mother I never knew. If I member he was a man comely an meet a man who is in need I say to well set up, an', I think, he had honor an' a good heart in him." myself, 'He may be my father or my The old man paused.

brother; I must be good to him,' and if it is a woman I cannot help thinking that maybe she is my mother or my sister. So I should have to be kind to "I should not think it possible," said Trove, who was at the age of certainty all the people in the world if I were to meet them."

"Noble suspicion, by the faith o' me fathers!" said the old man, thoughtin his opinions and had long beer trained to the uncompromising thought of the Puritan. "A man who steals can have no honor in him."
"Ho, Charity!" said the clock tinker fully rubbing his long nose. "An' have ye thought further in the matter?

turning as if to address one behind "Sweet Charity, attend upon this boy. Mayhap, sir," he continued meek Well, sor, under the ancient law, ye ly, "God hath blessed me with little knowledge o' what is possible, but reap as ye have sown, but more abunspeak of a time before guilt had sored dantly. I gave me coat to one that needhim. He was officer of a great banked it more, an' by the goodness o' God let us say in Boston. Some thought him rich, but he lived high an' princely, I have reaped another an' two friends. Hold to thy course, boy. Thou shalt have friends an' know their value. An' an' I take it, sor, his income was no greater than his needs. It was a proud then thou shalt say, 'I'll be kind to this race he belonged to—grand people they were, all o' them, with houses an man because he may be a friend,' an' love shall increase in thee an' around lands an' many servants. His wife There was a moment of silence, bro-ken by the sound of a church bell. was dead, sor, an' he'd one child-a little lad o' two years an' beautiful, "To thy prayers," said the clock tinker, rising, "an' I'll to mine. Dine with me at 5, good youth, an' all me retinoo-mails. One day the boy went out with his nurse, an' where farther nobody knew. He never came back. Up an' down, over an' across, they looked for him night an' day, but were no wiser. A retinoo—maids, warders, grooms, at-tendants—shall be at thy service."
"I'll be glad to come," said the boy, smiling at his odd host.
"An' see thou hast hunger."

month went by an' not a sight or sign o' him, an' their hope failed. One day reading it in the papers, sor-an' it was a call for ransom money-$100,000."

the father he got a note-I remem

"He was, sor," the clock tinker resumed. "The father he was up to his neck in trouble then, for he was unable to raise the money. He had quarreled with an older brother, whose help would have been sufficient. Well, God save us all, 'twas the old story o' pride an' bitterness! He sought no help o' him. A year an' a half passes an' a gusty night o' midwinter the bank burns. Books, papers, everything is destroyed. Now the poor man has lost his occupation. A week more an' his good name is gone. A month an' he's homeless. A whisper goes down the long path o' gossip. Was he a thief an' had he burned the records o' his crime? The scene changes, an' let me count the swift, relentless years."

The old man paused a moment, looking up thoughtfully.

"Well, say ten or mayhap a dozen passed, or more or less it matters lit. tle. Boy an' man, where were they? old stairs were quivering in the storm Oh, the sad world, sor! To all that knew them they were as people buried in their graves. Think o' this drownclock tinker, shaking the boy's hand as ing in the flood o' years—the stately ships sunk an' rotting in oblivion. Some word of it, sor, may well go into thy book."

The tinker paused a moment, light ing his pipe, and after a puff or two went on with the tale.

"It is a winter day in a great city. There are buildings an' crowds an' He suited his action to the words, busy streets an' sleet in the bitter wind. I am there, an' me path is one o' many crossing each other like-well, sor, like lines on a slate, if thou wert to make 10,000 o' them an' both eyes shut. I am walking slowly, an' lo, there is the banker! I meet him face to face-an ill clad, haggard, cold, forgotten creature. I speak to him.

"The blessed Lord have mercy on thee,' I said. "'For meeting thee?' said the poor man. 'What is thy name?'

"'Roderick Darrel." "'An' L' said he sadly, 'am one o' the lost in hell. Art thou the devil?" "'Nay, this hand o' mine hath opened thy door an' blacked thy boots for thee often,' said I. 'Dost thou not remember?

" Dimly. It he answered.

"We said more, sor, but that is no part o' the story. Very well! I went with him to his lodgings-a little cold room in a garret-an' there, alone with me, he gave account of himself. He had shoveled an' dug an' lifted an' run errands until his strength was low an' the weight of his hand a burden. What hope for him? What way to earn a

" 'Have courage, man,' I said to him. 'Thou shalt learn to mend clocks. It's light an' decent work, an' one may live by it an' see much o' the world.'

"There was an old clock, sor, in heap o' rubbish that lay in a corner. I took it apart, and soon he saw the office of each wheel an' pinion an' the Infirmity that stopped them an' the surgery to make them sound. I tarried long in the great city, an' every evening we were together in the little room. I bought him a kit o' tools an' some brass, an' we would shatter the clockworks an' build them up again until he had skill, sor, to make or mend.

"'Me good friend,' said he one evening after we had been a long time at work, 'I wish thou couldst teach me how to mend a broken life. For God's sake, help me! I am fainting under a

"'What can I do?' said I to him. an impressive, a sacred confidence. boy, it would be dishonor to tell thee his name-but his story, that I may tell thee, changing the detail so it may never add a straw to his burden. I shall quote him in substance only an' follow the long habit o' me own tongue. "'Well, ye remember how me son was taken,' said he. 'I could not raise the ransom, try as I would. Now, large sums were in me keeping an' I fell. I remember that day. Ah, man, the devil seemed to whisper to me. But, God forgive, it was for love that the money I must have an' cover its absence. I said to meself, some time I'll pay it back-that ancient sophistry o' the devil. When me thieving had gone far an' near its goal the bank burned. As God's me witness I'd no hand in that. I weighed the chances an' expected to go to prison-well, say. for ten years at least. I must suffer in order to save the boy an' was ready for the sacrifice. Free again, I would elp him to return the money. That burning o' 'the records shut off the prison, but opened the fire o' hell upon me. Half a year had gone by an' not a word from the kidnapers. I took a note to the place appointed-a hollow log in the woods a bit east of a certain bridge on the public highway twenty miles out o' the city-but no answer, not a word, not a line, up to this moment. They must have relinquished hope an' put the boy to death. "In that old trunk there under the bed is a dusty, molding, cursed heap o' money done up in brown paper an' tied with a string. It is $100,000 an' the

'An' thou in rags an' a garret.' said I. "He drew out the trunk an' showed price o' me soul.'

me the money, stacks of it, dirty an' stinking o' damp mold.

" 'There it is,' said he, 'every dollar I stole is there. I brought it with me an' over these hundreds o' miles I could hear the tongue o' gossip. Every night as I lay down I could hear the whispering of all the people I ever knew. I could see them shake their heads. Then came this locket o' gold.'

"A beautiful, shiny thing it was, an' he took out of it a little strand o' white hair an' read these words cut in the R'y, Milwaukee, Wis. gleaming case:

"Here are silver and gold.

The one for a day o' remembrance between thee an' dishonor.

The other for a day o' plenty between thee

Park? A relief map, in color, correct "It was an odd thought an' worth in every detail, showing the exact keeping, an' often I have repeated the location of all points of importance words. The silvered hair, that was for in the Park. An available aid to the remembrance, an' the gold he might tourist and of value to every home, sell an' turn it into a day o plenty. library, or school. Sent prepaid on "'In the locket was a letter,' said the receipt of 35c.

poor man. 'Here it is,' an' he held it in the light o' the candle. 'See, it is sign-A. M. CLELAND, General Passenge Agent, St. Paul, Minnesota. "An' he read from the letter words o sorrow an' bitter shame an' firm con-What's the good of keeping from him fidence in his honor. "'It ground me to the very dust,' he went on. 'I put the money in that bundle, every dollar. I could not re-turn it an' so confirm the diagrace o' for if I lived in comfort they would PETER'S GREAT ask-all o' them-whence came his money? For their sake I must walk In poverty all me days. An' I went to CONFESSION work at heavy toll, sor, as became a poor man. As God's me judge, I felt

Sunday School Lesson for June 10,1906 a pride in rags an' the borny hand." The tinker paused a moment, in Specially Prepared for This Paper. which all the pendulums seemed to quicken pace, tick inpping upon tick, as if trying to get ahead of each other. LESSON TEXT.-Matt. 16:13-28; Mem ory verses 24, 25, GOLDEN TEXT,—"Thou art the Christ GOLDEN TEXT,—"Thou art the Christ "Think of it, boy," Darrel continued. "A pride in rags an' poverty. Bring the Son of the Living God."-Matt. 16 16 TIME.-Autumn A. D. 29, soon after that into thy book an' let thy best thinking bear upon it. Show us how he last lesson, PLACE,—About 25 miles northeast of patch an' tatter were for the poor man nas badges of honor an' success.

"I thought to burn the money,' me host went on. 'But no; that would have robbed me o' one great possibility—that o' restoring it. Some time, 18:17; Acts 2:47; 8:11; 15:3; Rom, 16:5; Eph. ty-that o' restoring It. Some time, 5:34-32; Heb. 12:23; Rev. 2:1, etc. "Hades" when they were dead, maybe, an' I Acts 2:27, 31; Luke 16:23; Matt. 11:23; Rev 1:18, etc. Distinguish it from "Gehenna" could suffer alone, or when some lucky chance might come to me, I would re-Matt. 5:22:Jas. 3:6, etc. Cross-bearing: Matt. 19:38, 33; Gal. 6:H; Heb. 12:2; Rom. 6:6; Gal. 2:30, etc. Comment and Suggestive Thought. store the money, but I could not find the owners of it. Day an' night these slow an' heavy years it has been here,

V. 13. "When Jesus came." When in his journeying in northern Palestine "'I lie here o' nights thinking. In he reached this point. Where he came that heap o' money I seem to hear the from, is not stated. "The coasts" sighs an' sobs o' the poor people that toiled to earn it. I feel their sweat up-("parts"). The near villages, "Asked his disciples." When he was walkon me, an', God, this heart o' mine is ing with them after a season of prayer crowded to bursting with the despair (Luke 9:18). o' hundreds! An', betimes I hear the V. 14. "Some say . . . John the Papcry o' murder in the cursed heap as if Herod, probably also his court there were some had blood upon it. held this opinion. "Some Elias." Elijah had been translated (2 Kings 2: neath me, an' I am burning raw in the 11), and there was among the Jews an expectation, founded on the proph-The tinker paused again, crossing the ecy of Mal. 4:5, that he would return. room and watching the swing of a pen-"Jeremias." Jeremiah. "One of the "Boy, boy," said he, returning to his prophets." Some other one of the anchair, "think o' that complaining, imcient prophets.

W 15, "Whom say ye?" The emphamovable heap lying there like the blood sis should be placed on ye. What of a murder! An' thy reader must feel the toll an' sweat an' misery an' others think of Christ is a matter of despair that is in a great sum, an' how little moment to us, compared with our own opinion of him.

it all presses on the heart o' him that V. 16, "Simon Peter answered." He "'Well, sor,' the poor fellow contin- as the most ready speaker of the comued, 'now an' then I met those had pany, spoke for all. "Thou art the known me, an' reports o' me poverty Christ." He declares the firm convicwent home. An' those dear to me sent tion that Jesus is indeed the Anointmoney, the sight o' which filled me ed One, promised by God. "Christ" is with a mighty sickness, an' I sent it the Greek term, "Messiah." the Heback to them. Long ago, thank God, brew word: both meaning "Anointthey ceased to think me a thief, but ed." "The Son." Not merely a son, only crazy. Tell me, man, what shall a member of the human race, but the I do with the money? There be those Son-the true Son as corresponding exliving I have to consider, an' those dead actly in character with the Father; one with God. "'Hide it,' said I, 'an' go to thy work,

V. 17. "Blessed." Happy. V. 18. "Thou art Peter! upon this Man and boy rose from the table and rock." To appreciate the nice play of words, we must recollect that Peter means rock. Jesus had added Peter to his previous name Simon, giving in the name a divine prophecy that the so for his friends. Think o' these good fickle, vacillating man would, in time, words, 'Greater love bath no man than be transformed into a rock-like charthis, that he lay down his life for his acter. In this great confession, we see friends.' If thou shouldst ever write this new character manifested. "Upon of it, thy problem will be to reckon the this rock I will build my church." good an' evil an' give each a careful Faith in Jesus as the visible expression of God's character, is the rock upon which Christ bullds his church thoughtfully. "It's terrible to think he In various places in Scripture, as here, may be my father. Please tell me when the church is spoken of as a building of which Christ is "the chief corner "Time or name or place I cannot tell stone," the apostles and prophets "foun-thee lest I betray him," said the old dation stones." "Neither is necessary to thy tale. Keep it with thee awhile. Thou V. 19. "Keys of the kingdom." This art young yet an' close inshore. Wait as part of the commission, relates not until ye sound the farther deep. Then, to Peter alone, but to the company of sor, write, if God give thee power, an' apostles. Jesus thus gave them authink chiefly o' them in peril an' about thority to teach the truths of his king-

For a moment the clocks' ticking V. 20. "They should tell no man." was like the voice of many ripples It would be better that all should learn washing the shore of the infinite. A to know and value Jesus for his real worth, until at length, like the apos they were cutting it into seconds. He tles, they came to know for themselves looked up at them and rose quickly that he was the Christ.

and stood a moment, his thumb on the V. 21. "From that time forth." door latch. Outside they could hear Jesus had given early hints of his sufferings, but from this time he began "Poor youth!" said the old man. to tell plainly that the way to his "Thou hast no coat—take mine. Take king om was the way of love—of complete self-giving.

V. 23. "Get thee behind me, Satan." He would hear no refusal, and again Jesus finds Peter being used by the the coat changed owners, giving hap-piness to the old and comfort to the prince of evil, that old enemy who nad presented the same temptation to him in the wilderness, when he offered to Then Trove went down the rickety give him the kingdom without the cross, if he would fall down and worship him.

V. 24. "If any . . . will come after me." Be like me. "Let him deny himself." Forget himself in living for God Over a million acres of land will be and fellow-men. "And take up his thrown open to settlement on the Sho- cross." Be ready in this loving spirit shone Indian Reservation August 15, to suffer and die for others, as I have 1906. These lands are reached by the chosen to do.

V. 25. "Whosoever will." Whoever direct route of the Chicago & Northdetermines to make this his tirst aim. "Save his life." Secure ease and Minneapolis, Omaha and other points pleasure during the present life. "Shall in the Mississippi Valley. Send 2c in stamps for pamphlets, maps and full life; lose the blessedness of self-givlose it." Shall lose his higher spiritual particulars to W. B. Kniskern, P. T. ing; self-giving is living.

V. 26. "Gain the whole world." Obtain all the satisfaction that can possibly flow from the possession of An up-to-date Atlas of the Northwealth and worldly distinction. west and the Orient for $1.00. The V. 27. "For." This great balancing Northern Pacific Railway company of accounts is not a mere figure of will send an Atlas of the Northwest. speech, but will actually occur. very complete in detail, to anyone up-V. 28. "Some . . . not taste death. till they see . . . kingdom." The fui-fillment of this has by some been ap-This is a recent compilation, and plied to the scene of Transfiguration; data, maps, illustrations, etc., are re which three of Jesus' hearers witliable and from best sources. Sent nessed within a week. prepaid on receipt of price.

A. M. CLELAND, General Passenger

V. 14. Christ is as sadly misunderstood to-day as when he walked on the earth .- 1 Tim. 4:1.

Practical Points. V. 17. True views of Jesus Christ can be pleasantly spent at Waukesha, are implanted by God in the human Waupaca, Fifield, or at one of the heart.-1 Cor. 12:3.

other hundred resorts reached via V. 18. Placing faith in Christ as the Wisconsin Central Railway. Write visible expression of God's character. is laying the foundation-stone of true for beautifully illustrated Summer religion.-1 Cor. 3:11. Book, which tells you how, when and

V. 24. Being a Chaletian is being at heart as Christ was .- John 13:15. POND, G. P. A., Wisconsin Central others is the heart of Christianity. V. 25. Self-forgetfulness in love for Rom. 13:10.

V. 26. We cannot afford to lose the heart-life for anything else.-Luke 12:

$25.00 Round Trip Chicago to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, Via the Chicago, Union Pacific &

Northern-Line. This low rate is in effect the first and third Tuesday of effect the first and third Tuesday of each month. Other low rate tickers $30.00 roundtrip, daily, beginning June 1. The Colorado Special, only one night to Denver, leaves Wells Street Station 7:00 p. m. Another excellenthrough train leaves at 11:00 p m. For tickets and full information, apply to your nearest ticket agent or address N. M. Breeze, Gen'l. Agt., 436 Walnut St., Cincinnati, O.

W. B. CORSETS

That torturing pressure on the chest and abdomen is absent from W. B. Erect Form and W. B.

They fit without strain. Made in many graceful shapes and prices to fit all persons as well as all purses. W. B. Nuform Corsets answer fashion's command that figures be natural -busts higher and waists rounded into greater slender-

On sale at all dealers.

Nuform 404 - - Average | of Batitle $1.00 Erect Form 720 - Average of Battere 1.00 Erect Form 952 - Slender of Jean 1.00 Nuform 407 - - { Medium | of Batiste | 1.50 Erect Form 929 - Stout of Batiste 1.50 Erect Form 958 - | Average | of Court 2.00 Nuform 415 - - | Average | of Batist 3.00 Erect Form 208 - Stout of Coutil 3.00

Makers, 377-379 Broadway, New York

ED.PINAUD'S

EAU DE QUININE "Without question, an indispensable adjunct to a lady's toilet table—exceedingly meritorious in preserving hair and causing "its lustre."—"Lillion Russell.
"Indispensable"—"Meritorious"—"Preserving the hair"—"Causing the hair to retain its lustre."
YES, and these truths have been proven and attested thousands of Men of prominence and women of beauty—people of reinnement—everywhere, insist on having the genuine

ED. PINAUD'S EAU DE QUININE HAIR TONIC

FREE—Ed. Pinaud's Eau de Quinine Hair Tonic for three applications; enough extunish perfune, Briss Embaumer Viciente, for five times, and famous ELIXIR DENTRIFICE for five times. Send IO cent to pay postage and packing.

IFrite To. Day. ED. PINAUD'S AMERICAN OFFICES

BIG. Pinaud Building

Pacific Coast Excursions

Othe man who seeks a climate that is mild and a region of widely varied resources, the Pacific Coast offers great opportunities.

California, Oregon and Washington, splendig in their climatic and health-building conditions offer the op-One-way Colonist tickets are on sale daily, Eeb. 15th to April 7th, at the rate of $33.00 from Chicago, with correspondingly low rates from all points. Daily and Personally Conducted Excursions on which a double berth in a Pullman tourist sleeping car from Chicago costs only $7.00. All agents sell tickets via the Chicago Union Pacific & North-Western Line.

The train service ist of the best,—these tickets are good in tourist sleeping cars on the famous Electric-Lighter Los Angeles Limited, less than on In Chinas of Japan Fast Mail, through to San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland daily If you want to know how to reach this land where the climate is mild and where labor is never oppressed by atress of weather, how much it costs to go and what you can do when you get there, send a cents for books, maps, time tables and full information.

N. M. Breeze, G. A., 436 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gillette STROPFING Razor

150

sharp. Always ready. You simply lather and shave. Each set contains 12 doubleedged blades. 24 keen cutting

GILLETTE SALES COMPANY TIMES BUILDING, TIMES SQUARE,

Sally Schreech r (at the plano)-I'm float! I'm a-float. Her Father-By Jove! You'd jolly den, ion't it ?

Minstress-You wish me .. take your notice, Jane. This is very sud-edges. Each blade is tempered so hard by our secret process it will give an average of 20 to 40 velvet shaves.

Triple silver-plated. Always

Ask your dealer to show it to you and explain its extra-ordinary merits or write us for free specially illustrated booklet.

soon be capsized if you were met by Jane (blushingly)—Oh, no; Mum I've such a squall at that.—Tatler. known 'im three days!—Punch. known 'im three days!-Punch.